

Purple Chameleon Communications

creating successful marketing communication campaigns

- Need help with your marketing communications but don't know where to start?
- Want help putting together a new website or need a fresh pair of eyes to look at existing content?
- Or maybe some targeted PR to increase your profile and reach potential customers?

We can do all this, and more. Removing the burden of finding the right words for your marketing communications lets you get on with what you do best - running your business.

We help businesses achieve their marketing communications objectives by writing and editing a wide range of material including business documents, newsletters, feature articles, catalogues, websites, advertisements, brochures and more.

For the first five people who contact me from this flyer and mention the "Power Plus Promotion Offer", I will review your website and provide a free report on how you can improve its structure and content. Email ruth@purplechameleon.com.au to take advantage of this special offer!
